Two expansion projects on the Montour Trail have been funded with a state grant.

One will extend the trail into the Coraopolis business district, which should be a win for merchants and trail users. The other will connect the Library Viaduct over Route 88 with Pleasant Street in South Park Township.

Excerpts from the announcement by state Sen. Matt Smith, D-Mt. Lebanon:

The Montour Trail Council was awarded $313,300 to construct approximately 0.8 miles of trail, which will complete the mainline of the Montour Trail from Moon Township into downtown Coraopolis Borough. The completed Montour Junction trial segment will wind directly through a major Allegheny County recreation project, currently in development, and will ultimately provide a connection point for future trails extending along the Ohio River to the state line.

“Bringing the Montour Trail into a town full of services is of great benefit to trail users and to the businesses that they will visit,” said Ned Williams, Montour Trail Council representative. “Tying into a new Allegheny County park and to other future trail systems makes this project even more valuable to the public. We are most grateful to our partners for their strong support.”

South Park Township was awarded $243,000 to construct approximately 900 feet of the Montour Trail, which would connect the east end of the Library Viaduct to residential Pleasant Street. The Viaduct is scheduled to be rehabilitated for trail use this coming year.

“Completion of the Pleasant Street project will provide an important amenity for the neighborhood as well as a key intermodal connection to the Port Authority’s Library Station park-and-ride lot in South Park,” Smith said.

Williams added, “Over thirty five miles of the mainline of the Montour Trail is nearly finished, up to the Library Viaduct. This Pleasant Street section sets the stage for continuing the trail further east to connect with completed Montour sections, and to link with the Great Allegheny Passage trail to Washington, D.C. South Park Township is a great partner in trail development.”
