STATIONS OF THE PAST
Station Name	Original Railroad	Notes
ALIQUIPPA
BEAVER		The station was located at the base of a bluff between Insurance Street and College Avenue. The P&LE and Beaver Valley Traction Company offered faster service than the PRR from points west on the Ohio River so the station was likely torn down prior to WWII.
BEAVER FALLS		Demolished in 1970s. This brick station was actually moved in the 1920s about 300 yards West of its original location. It was moved down to the river bank, across the P&LE tracks, under the PRR bridge, and back across the P&LE tracks to its new location. Photos show station in original location on cribbage for the move and after being moved under the PRR bridge.
BEAVER FALLS		This freight station sat at the corner of 11th Street and 1st Avenue. It was demolished in early 2007.
DARLINGTON		The New York, Pittsburgh & Chicago (NYP&C) was the predecessor to the Pittsburgh, Lisbon & Western (absorbed by the Youngstown & Southern in 1945). Despite its name the railroad only went from Pittsburgh to Youngstown, OH.
MONACA		This station was torn down in the early 1990s.
