Dear Dr. Troia:

I am sorry to inform you that, at this time, the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission has chosen not to approve the Lewis & Clark Corps of Discovery historical marker nomination that you recently submitted.

The Commission's action follows the recommendations of an independent review panel consisting of historians, educators, and historical experts from around the Commonwealth. I have indicated on the enclosed listing which of the guidelines for approval the panel felt your nomination did not adequately meet as well as explanatory comments.

I am available to speak with you about whether there are ways to strengthen your nomination for resubmission in subsequent years.

Marker nominations may be submitted in three consecutive years, after which they cannot be reconsidered for at least three more years. If you wish to reapply and are eligible to do so, please submit a new nomination by the next annual deadline, Dec. 1, 2012. Nomination forms are available on our web site at www.phmc.state.pa.us or by request.

You may also decide to consider manufacturing a local marker of your own. Although the design and color scheme of such a marker would necessarily be different from an official state marker, the manufacturing costs would likely be similar. Our staff would be pleased to assist you in writing a text or providing contact information for manufacturers.

Our sincere thanks for your interest in Pennsylvania history and the Historical Marker Program.

Sincerely,

Karen L. Galle

2012 Marker Panel Summaries u

Name of Nominated Marker: Lewis and Clark Corps of Discovery

✓ indicates nomination does not adequately demonstrate that it meets the guideline

- ✓1. The nomination is clear and organized and includes thorough documentation (with selected photocopies and bibliographies from primary and secondary sources) and verification of the facts claimed.
- 2. The person, place, or event to be marked had a significant impact on its times.
- ✓3. The person, place, or event to be marked is of statewide or national historical significance rather than that of local or regional interest.
- 4. The place, or event to be marked is historic and dated to at least ten years prior to the nomination. It is not contemporary.
- 5. The person to be marked has been deceased for at least ten years.
- 6. Nominations for geographical, topographical, or natural features are to be referred to the appropriate federal, state, or local agency.
- ✓7. People, places, and events already marked with existing monuments or markers receive less favorable consideration for a PHMC historical marker.
- 8. People, places, and events nominated, reviewed, and disapproved by the Commission three times in succession are not eligible for review panel consideration for a period of three years.
- 9. Governors of Pennsylvania are approved as the subject of a historical marker upon nomination (subject to Criteria #5).
- 10. Historic sites or properties owned by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission are approved as the subject of a historical marker upon nomination.
- 11. Places listed on the National Register of Historic Places and/or recognized as National Historic Landmarks or United Nations World Heritage Sites receive consideration by the review panel. Such places will not be summarily approved, but will receive equal consideration.
- 12. Cemeteries and burial places are generally not approved unless the nomination demonstrates that the cemetery meets criterion 2, 3, or 11.

Comments:

The launch of this expedition is marked in Pittsburgh. This incident has little historical significance in the context of the great expedition. It was simply what happened on one day of the journey – a journal entry. The nominator may wish to pursue a locally erected interpretive wayside marker.
