

North Country National Scenic Trail

Congress authorized the North Country National Scenic Trail in 1980, a 4,600-mile hiking trail across seven northern states, from the Adirondacks in New York, to Lake Sakakawea in North Dakota. When completed, the trail will link existing hiking trails and state parks and national forests, much like the fabled Appalachian Trail along eastern states.

SOURCES: ESRI; TeleAtlas; U.S. Geologic Service; National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior

KEN MARSHALL | THE PLAIN DEALER